Barbarian: Path of the Wrathful Dead

Channel the Rage of the Unquiet Dead

Barbarians who walk the Path of the Wrathful Dead commune with the spirits of the dead, channeling their spectral powers while in a Rage. They're often preoccupied with the voices of the dead whispering in their ears, urging them to act upon their whims and emotions. Some Barbarians who walk this path learn to master the power the dead have gifted them; others find they've become servants to the unending chorus of spirits clamoring for their attention.

Level 3: Rage of the Dead

Your Rage taps into the endless fury of the unquiet dead. While your Rage is active, you take on aspects of restless spirits. While your Rage is active, you gain the following benefits.

Shadow Form. You ignore Difficult Terrain and can move through, but not stop in, spaces occupied by creatures.

Shadowy Sidestep. Your Speed increases by 10 feet and Opportunity Attacks against you have Disadvantage.

Spectral Sight. You see creatures and objects within 120 feet that have the Invisible condition as if they were visible, and you can see into the Ethereal Plane.

Level 3: Final Night Catharsis

You are overcome by an emotion that a nearby restless spirit experienced at the moment of its mortal death. You gain one of the following options of your choice. Whenever you finish a Long Rest, you can change your choice.

Hate. When you miss an attack against a creature, you have Advantage on the next attack you make against it before the end of your next turn.

Jealousy. When a creature you have Grappled is about to make an ability check to end the Grappled condition on itself, you can use your Reaction to give that check Disadvantage.

Terror. While you are Bloodied, you can use a Bonus Action to take the Dash or Disengage action.

Once you reach 14th level, you can change your choice whenever you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Level 6: Dark Doom Revisited

Once during an instance of your Rage you can use a Magic action to channel the traumatic ending of a spirit haunting the area. When you do, choose one of the following options of your choice.

Contamination. Each creature of your choice within 10 feet of you must succeed on a Constitution saving throw (DC 8 + your Constitution modifier + your Proficiency Bonus) or take Poison damage and gain the Poisoned condition for 1 minute.

To determine the Poison damage, roll a number of d6s equal to your Rage Damage bonus and add them together. An affected creature can use an action to purge, ending the Poisoned condition on itself.

Hypothermia. Each creature of your choice within 10 feet of you must succeed on a Constitution saving throw (DC 8 + your Strength modifier + your Proficiency Bonus) or take Cold damage and have its Speed halved for 1 minute.

To determine the Cold damage, roll a number of d6s equal to your Rage Damage bonus and add them together. An affected creature can use an action to warm itself, ending the damage and the Speed reduction effect on itself.

Immolation. Each creature of your choice within 15 feet of you must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw (DC 8 + your Constitution modifier + your Proficiency Bonus) or take Fire damage and have the Aflame condition.

To determine the Fire damage while creature or object is Aflame, roll a number of d6s equal to your Rage Damage bonus and add them together. An Aflame creature takes this Fire damage at the start of each of its turns.

Level 10: Death Is But a Door

Your familiarity with death has left you resistant to its call. You gain the following benefits.

Hard to Kill. You have Advantage on Death Saving Throws. In addition, you must fail four Death Saving Throws to die instead of three as normal.

Return the Spirit. You can call the spirits of the deceased to restore the life essence of a nearby creature. As Magic action, you can cast the Cure Wounds, Raise Dead, or Revivify spell without providing material components. When you do, you gain one level of Exhaustion for Cure Wounds, two levels of Exhaustion for Revivify, and three levels of Exhaustion for Raise Dead. Constitution is your spellcasting ability for it.

Once you cast any of the spells in this way, you can't do so again until you finish a Long Rest, unless you expend two uses of your Rage (no action required) to restore your use of it.

Level 14: Powered by Pathos

Your rage is empowered by the overwhelming emotion of the unquiet dead. You gain one of the following additional benefits based on the emotion chosen with your Final Night Catharsis feature.

Hate. While your Rage is active, your first attack roll on your turn with weapons and Unarmed Strikes can score a Critical Hit on a roll of 19 or 20 on the d20.

Jealousy. While your Rage is active, when a creature within 30 feet of you starts its turn, you can use a Reaction to summon spectral assailants to Grapple the creature. The creature can make a Strength or Dexterity saving throw (DC 8 + your Constitution modifier + your Proficiency Bonus) to avoid having the Restrained condition until the end of its turn. On a successful save, the creature is not Grappled; however, every foot of movement costs 1 extra foot for that creature until the end of its turn.

Terror. While your Rage is active, when a creature starts its turn within 30 feet of you, you can use a Reaction to make that creature terrified until the start of its next turn. A terrified creature has its Speed halved and Opportunity Attacks against it have Advantage until the start of its next turn.

New Condition: Aflame

While you have the Aflame condition, you experience the following effects.

On Fire. You take 1d6 Fire damage at the start of each of your turns for 1 minute. Different damage may occur based on the source that caused the Aflame condition.

Extinguishable. The Aflame condition can be ended before 1 minute if the creature with the condition uses an action to put out the flames. Alternatively, another creature within 5 feet of the Aflame creature can use an action to extinguish the flames.

Bard: College of Fools

Laugh at Your Foes Terror

It's commonly believed the College of Fools is merely a front for a cult of Beleth. Bards in the college would say their relationship with the Arch-Daemon of fear is much more complicated. These Bards choose to laugh at Etharis' many horrors rather than be dismayed by them—a whimsical if ghoulish philosophy. Their delight in other creatures' terror encourages their obscene antics and cruel jests. One person's trick is another person's terror, after all.

Level 3: Antagonistic Antics

You know the Vicious Mockery cantrip. If you already know this cantrip, you know another Bard cantrip of your choice. Additionally, Dissonant Whispers is always prepared for you.

In addition, when you take the Dash, Disengage, or Influence action on your turn, you can use a Bonus Action on the same turn to cast Vicious Mockery.

Level 3: Cruel Jest

When a creature within 30 feet of you that can see or hear you fails a D20 Test, you can use your Reaction and expend one use of your Bardic Inspiration to deal Psychic damage equal to a roll of your Bardic Inspiration die plus your Charisma modifier. When you do, the creature has Disadvantage on the next D20 Test it makes before the end of its next turn.

Level 6: Gallows Humor

When a creature you can see within 60 feet of you is reduced to 0 Hit Points or killed outright, you can use your Reaction to regain an expended use of your Bardic Inspiration. When you do, choose a creature within 30 feet of you that can hear you, that speaks a language, and can understand you. That creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw against your spell save DC or gain the Prone condition and have its Speed reduced to 0 until the end of its next turn as it is overcome with terror. If the creature succeeds on the Wisdom saving throw, you regain the use of this ability. Otherwise, once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Level 14: Last Laugh

When you become Bloodied or take damage while you are Bloodied, you can use your Reaction to regain all expended Bardic Inspiration dice and break out into a cackling fit of fatalistic glee at your own impending doom for 1 minute. During this time, you have Resistance to all damage. Also, when you take damage from an attack, you can choose to expend up to three Bardic Inspiration dice. The attacker must succeed on a Charisma saving throw against your spell save DC or take Psychic damage equal to a roll of the Bardic Inspiration dice you expended plus your Charisma modifier.

Once you use this feature, you must finish a Long Rest before you can use it again.

Cleric: Purification Domain

Purge Sickness with Suffering

The Purification Domain believes sickness, mutation, and other forms of bodily corruption are signs of a corresponding spiritual malady. Virtue cannot exist alongside impurity. The wickedness of humanity is a contagion that manifests plagues like the Weeping Pox. When there's risk of such corruption spreading, there's only one surefire way to contain the rot and atone for the sins which led us to this point: Burn it out.

Level 3: Cleanse with Fire

Whenever you deal damage with a weapon attack or cantrip, you may deal an additional 1d8 Fire damage. You may use this feature a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier plus your Proficiency Bonus and regain all uses when you complete a Short or Long Rest.

Level 3: Purification Domain Spells

Your connection to this divine domain ensures you always have certain spells ready. When you reach a Cleric level specified in the Purification Domain Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Purification Domain Spells

Cleric Level	Prepared Spells
3	Detect Poison and Disease, Flame Blade
5	Fear, Flash Fever
7	Aura of Purity, Wall of Fire
9	Flame Strike, Hold Monster

Level 3: Unclean Brand

When you hit a creature with a Melee weapon attack, you may forego the damage of that attack and expend one use of your Channel Divinity to sear a symbol into their flesh, designating them as unclean. The target is marked by a glowing brand for 1 minute. During that time, the creature has Disadvantage on saving throws against your spells. Additionally, the creature gains Vulnerability to Fire damage you deal to it, even if it normally has Resistance or Immunity to Fire damage.

Level 6: Ward Against Corruption

You gain Advantage on saving throws to avoid or end the Poisoned condition, saving throws against disease, and saving throws against any effect that would change your form, such as the Polymorph spell.

You may also grant this resistance to another willing creature you touch as a Magic action, but the creature takes Fire damage equal to your Wisdom modifier, which cannot be decreased in any way. Once you grant this benefit, it lasts for 1 hour or until you use this feature again.

Level 17: Sear Imperfections

You may cast Lesser Restoration and Greater Restoration without expending spell slots and without Material components, but if you do the target also takes 1d6 Fire damage for each level of the spell. This Fire damage cannot be mitigated in any way.

Druid: Circle of Entropy

Become an Instrument of Decay and Ruin

Druids in the Circle of Entropy share the nihilistic outlook that the one constant of the natural world is doom. All lives end, all mortals are forgotten, and the many institutions and civilizations of the people of Etharis ultimately come to ruin. From the inevitable end of what is old comes the opportunity for something new, which is also doomed to rot. Druids in the Circle of Entropy see themselves as agents of ruin, ushering to an end those things and people whose time has passed to make space for what's to come.

Level 3: Catastrophic Power

You have mastered talents, magical and martial, in your pursuit of embodying the inevitable destruction of mortals and their many works. When you finish a Short or Long Rest, you gain one of the following benefits until you complete your next Short or Long Rest.

Elemental Cataclysm. As a Magic action, you can expend a spell slot and choose a point within 60 feet of yourself. Elemental power explodes in a 10-foot-radius Sphere centered on that point. Each creature in the Sphere must make a Dexterity saving throw against your spell save DC.

On a failed save, a creature takes 1d6 damage per level of the spell slot expended, and gains Vulnerability to that damage type for 1 minute. This damage can be your choice of Acid, Cold, Fire, or Lightning. On a successful save, the creature takes half damage and gains no Vulnerability. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns to remove the Vulnerability.

Ruinous Smite. Once per turn when you hit a creature with a weapon attack or Unarmed Strike, you can expend a spell slot to deal an extra 1d8 Necrotic damage, plus another 1d8 per level of the spell slot, and the target gains the Endangered condition until the start of your next turn or until it suffers a Critical Hit. Attacks against an endangered creature score a Critical Hit on a roll of 19 or 20 on the d20.

Weapon Mastery. Your supernatural connection to destruction allows you to use the mastery property of one kind of weapon of your choice with which you have proficiency, such as Shortbows or Quarterstaves.

Whenever you finish a Long Rest, you can change the kind of weapon you choose. For example, you could switch to using the mastery property of Slings or Greatclubs.

Level 3: Ruin Incarnate

As a Bonus Action, you can expend a use of your Wild Shape to adopt an aspect of entropy and the inevitable end of all things for 10 minutes. During this time, you have the following benefits:

All Things Pass. Your attacks against Bloodied creatures have Advantage.

Inexorable Onslaught. You can attack twice instead of once whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

Ironskin Armor. You have an Armor Class of 15 plus your Wisdom modifier (minimum +1) if your AC is lower than that.

Level 6: Many Roads to Ruin

Your mystic connection to catastrophe and destruction grows stronger. You gain the following benefits.

Elemental Assault. When you use your Ruin Incarnate feature, select one of the following damage types: Acid, Cold, Fire, Lightning, or Necrotic. While your Ruin Incarnate feature is active, you can deal the attack's normal damage type or the chosen damage type. You make this choice between the normal damage and the selected damage types each time you hit with an attack with a weapon or Unarmed Strike.

Increased Might. While your Ruin Incarnate feature is active, you can add your Wisdom modifier to your Strength and Dexterity saving throws.

Level 10: Shake the Earth

As a Magic action, you can strike the earth and grow in size. When you do, your size increases by one category (from Medium to Large, for example) for 10 minutes, and you create a tremor within 30 feet of you. Creatures within the tremor must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw against your spell DC or have the Prone condition. Structures within the tremor take Bludgeoning damage. To determine this damage, roll a number of d10s equal to your Druid level and add them together.

While your size is increased by this feature, your attacks with weapons and Unarmed Strikes deal an additional 1d4 damage.

Once you use this feature, you must finish a Long Rest before you can use it again.

Level 14: Entropy's Apex

You have mastered the ability to hasten the inevitable slide of all things towards entropy. You gain the following benefits.

Enhanced Ruinous Smite. Attacks against a creature endangered by your Ruinous Smite score a Critical Hit on a roll of 18-20 on the d20.

Improved Inexorable Onslaught. While your Ruin Incarnate feature is active, you can attack with a weapon three times instead of once whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

World Breaker. You regain the use of your Shake the Earth feature when you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Fighter: Nightwatcher

Take Back the Night

Not every adventurer is burdened with glorious destiny. Nightwatchers come from humble origins, often toiling as a city guard, private investigator, or bodyguard. Nightwatchers stand firm against the darkness and the things that dwell there, undaunted by the many dangers that lurk outside the safety of the light. Though merely mortal, a Nightwatcher's vigilant mind capitalizes on the opportunities presented by nocturnal encounters, surprising and overwhelming foes much greater than themselves.

Level 3: Always on Guard

Unraveling mysteries under the cover of night has honed your skills. You gain the following benefits.

Expertise. Choose one of your skill proficiencies with which you lack Expertise. You gain Expertise in that skill.

Skilled. You gain proficiency in two skills of your choice from the following list: Deception, History, Insight, Intimidation, Investigation, Perception, or Stealth.

Level 3: Ever Vigilant

Your long nights of vigilance have left your senses attuned to signs of danger, granting you the following benefits.

Darkvision. You have Darkvision with a range of 60 feet. If you already have Darkvision, its range increases by 60 feet.

Keen Senses. You can't be surprised and have Advantage on Initiative rolls and Wisdom (Perception) checks.

Warning Shout. When you make an Initiative roll, you can use your Reaction to signal a warning to creatures of your choice within 30 feet of you that can see or hear you. Each creature can then use their Reactions to gain Advantage on their Initiative checks and move half their Speed without provoking Opportunity Attacks. You can use this ability once, and you cannot use it again until you complete a Long Rest.

Level 7: Size Up

As a Bonus Action, you can size up a creature you can see within 30 feet of you until the start of your next turn. When that creature makes an attack against you or another creature within 5 feet of you, you can use your Reaction to impose Disadvantage on the first attack that turn. If an attack hits, the attack does half damage (rounded down).

Level 10: Night Stalker

You are adept at tracking down enemies in the dead of night, giving you these benefits.

Blindsight. As a Bonus Action, you gain Blindsight to a distance of 30 feet for 10 minutes. Once you use this benefit, you can't use it again until you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Slippery. Opportunity Attacks against you have Disadvantage. While entirely in Dim Light or Darkness, your movement does not provoke Opportunity Attacks.

Level 15: Ready for Action

When you make an Initiative roll you can treat a d20 roll of 9 or lower as a 10. When you roll an 18-20 on the d20 on an Initiative roll, you can take one additional action, except the Magic action, on your first turn.

Level 18: Beat Down

While you have a creature targeted using your Size Up feature, any time you miss that creature with a melee attack using a weapon or Unarmed Strike, you can immediately make an additional attack with Advantage using the same weapon or Unarmed Strike against the target as part of the same Action, Bonus Action, or Reaction.

Monk: Warrior of Regret

Atone for Past Mistakes

Nobody is born with the intention to bring evil into this world, yet many lives are transformed by the suffering inflicted upon others. Warriors of Regret are haunted by the shadows of evil deeds done.

Through training and reflection, Warriors of Regret accept their past cannot be erased. Instead, they focus to bring remorse and grief into being as a dark specter, which is wielded as a weapon against foes. Though their misdeeds follow their every footstep, Warriors of Regret are not powerless to atone for them.

Level 3: Shade of Regret

Once per turn you may spend 1 Focus Point to create a shadowy copy of yourself called a Regret Shade. The Regret Shade appears within 10 feet of your current location until the start of your next turn. This shadow counts as an allied creature, it cannot be interacted with, other creatures can occupy its space, and it uses your statistics when applicable.

You may use your Reaction to make an Unarmed Attack with the Regret Shade when a creature moves out of its reach. This attack uses all the features of your Unarmed Strike but deals Necrotic damage instead of any other type. It cannot Grapple, Push, or otherwise affect a target unless otherwise noted.

At the start of your next turn, the Regret Shade dissipates unless you spend 1 Focus point to extend its duration to the start of the following turn. Alternatively, you may choose, as a Bonus Action, to teleport to the shadow's location as it dissipates.

Level 3: The Road Not Traveled

When you take the Dash action, you may teleport up to 60 feet to the location of your Regret Shade before taking your additional movement.

Level 6: Aid Not Given

You may use your Bonus Action to command your Regret Shade to move up to your Speed. Before, during, or after that movement, the Regret Shade can take the Help action or restore 1d8 + your Wisdom modifier Hit Points to a creature within 5 feet of it.

Level 11: Crushing Guilt

You may spend 3 Focus Points to release your pent up guilt in a crushing wave that drops your foes to their knees. Each creature of your choice within 20 feet of you or your Regret Shade must make a Wisdom saving throw against the DC of your Focus Point features. On a failed save, the targets take Psychic damage equal to three rolls of your Martial Arts die and gain the Prone condition. On a successful save, a creature takes half as much damage and does not fall Prone.

Level 17: Relive the Past

You no longer expend Focus when creating your Regret Shade. In addition, you may expend 4 Focus points when you take the Attack action to have your Regret Shade mimic your actions. Until the end of your turn, whenever you make an attack roll using a Monk weapon or Unarmed Strike, your Regret Shade may make an Unarmed Strike against a creature within 5 feet of it. Your Regret Shade's attacks use all the features of your attacks, except that they deal can be made to deal Necrotic damage instead of Bludgeoning or Force damage. For example, if you choose to perform a Stunning Strike on your attack, the Regret Shade does that same, but does not pay the Focus Point cost. Once you use this feature, you cannot use it again until you complete a Short or Long Rest.

Paladin: Oath of Slaughter

Revel in Unbridled Violence

The only truth of war is death. The only virtue is to kill. The only victory is to survive. Heroism, honor, and glory are illusions. This is the creed of Tormach, Arch-Daemon of War, but this philosophy rings true for any warrior who devotes themselves, body and soul, to the thrill of combat and the delight of bloodshed. Such champions find themselves at the forefront of armies, using the most violent methods at their disposal to bring battles to a swift close... or drawing out the war to sate their own appetites.

Paladins who take the Oath of Slaughter share the following tenets:

- Violence is the end, not the means.
- Break the body to break the spirit.
- Revel in bloodshed, whether friend or foe.

Level 3: Frenzied Slaughter

You can harness the rush of battle to drive you to even greater acts of violence. As a Bonus Action, you can expend one use of your Channel Divinity to enter a battle frenzy until the end of your next turn. While active, you gain the following benefits:

Reflexive Attack. If you miss with an attack roll using a Melee weapon or Unarmed Strike, you may use your Reaction to make another attack roll against a creature within reach using the same weapon or Unarmed Strike. If this second attack hits, you regain the use of your Reaction.

Condition Resistance. You have Advantage on saving throws to avoid or end the Charmed, Frightened, and Stunned conditions.

Duration. At the start of your next turn, you can extend its duration of Frenzied Slaughter for another round by making an attack roll against an enemy or forcing an enemy to make a saving throw. If you are Bloodied at the end of your turn, this feature's duration is extended automatically with no action required. Each time this feature is extended, it lasts until the end of your next turn. You can maintain this feature for up to 1 minute.

Level 3: Oath of Slaughter Spells

The magic of your oath ensures you always have certain spells ready; when you reach a Paladin level specified in the Oath of Slaughter Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Oath of Slaughter Spells

Paladin Level	Spells
3	Crimson Lash, Inflict Wounds
5	Bloodletter, Shatter
9	Crusader's Mantle, Fear
13	Staggering Smite, Supernal Smite
17	Destructive Wave, Steel Wind Strike

Level 7: Bloodthirst Aura

Your lust for blood infects those around you. Bloodied creatures of your choice within your Aura of Protection gain a bonus to weapon and Unarmed Strike damage rolls equal to your Charisma modifier.

Additionally, when a Bloodied creature within your Aura of Protection is targeted by a Sangromancy spell, you can use your Reaction to give the creature Disadvantage on the saving throw against that spell.

Level 15: Follow Through

Whenever you deal damage to a creature with an attack using a Melee weapon or Unarmed Strike, if that damage causes the creature to become Bloodied, you may immediately make another attack roll with Advantage against a creature within reach using the same weapon or Unarmed Strike.

Level 20: Blood Knight

Your lust for blood imbues you with preternatural strength and resilience, allowing you to keep sowing slaughter. As a Bonus Action, you gain the following benefits for 10 minutes, or until you end them (no action required). Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a Long Rest. You can also restore your use of it by expending a level 5 spell slot (no action required).

Crimson Armor. Each time a creature within your Aura of Protection becomes Bloodied, you gain 20 Temporary Hit Points.

Seeing Red. When a creature hits you with a melee attack, you may use your Reaction to make an attack against that creature with a Melee weapon or Unarmed Strike if they are within reach.

Wanton Slaughter. Whenever you deal damage to a creature with a Melee weapon attack or Unarmed Strike, you deal damage equal to your Charisma modifier to each creature other than you who is within 5 feet of you or your target. This damage is of the same type as the initial attack.

Ranger: Primordial Archer

Channel the Wrath of the Wilds

In the areas of Etharis where nature still holds sway, many cling to ancient traditions of woodland hunters and witches. Marking themselves in paints and tattoos using wild plants and bone needles, theirs is a tradition of cunning, cruelty, and vindictive reprisal against any and all trespassers. Unlike the druids, these wood witches twist natural magic into hexes, imbue their ammunition with the fury of nature defiled.

Level 3: Elemental Arrows

As a Bonus Action you may expend one of your free uses of Hunter's Mark to imbue a Longbow or Shortbow with elemental energy for 1 minute. Choose one of the following damage types: Acid, Cold, Fire, Lightning, or Thunder. For the duration, any attack made with the chosen weapon deals damage of the selected type instead of its normal type, and does an additional 1d6 damage of that type. In addition, you may use a Bonus Action on your turn to change the selected damage type.

Level 3: Herbal Lore

You gain an Herbalism Kit and are proficient with it. You may use an Herbalism Kit as a Bonus Action to stabilize an Unconscious creature within five feet of you that has 0 Hit Points as if using a Healer's Kit without needing to succeed on a Wisdom (Medicine) check. If you use a Utilize action instead, the Unconscious creatures gains 1 Hit Point instead.

Once you use this feature, you cannot do so again until you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Level 3: Primordial Archer Spells

When you reach a Ranger level specified in the Primordial Archer Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Primordial Archer Spells

Ranger Level	Spells
3	Hex
5	Blindness/Deafness
9	Call Lightning
13	Polymorph
17	Wall of Stone

Level 7: Weave the Elements

When you finish a Long Rest, you may use an Herbalism Kit to mark yourself with magical patterns or imbue existing tattoos with elemental energy. Choose one of the following damage types: Acid, Cold, Fire, Lightning, or Thunder. You gain Resistance to the chosen damage type until you finish a Long Rest.

Level 11: Witching Arrows

You gain the ability to imbue curses into your arrows. When you use the Attack action to make an attack roll using a Longbow or Shortbow, you can use a Bonus Action and expend a spell slot to select one of the options below. If you expend a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, increase the listed damage by 2d6 for each spell slot level above 1.

Arcing Shot. Electricity crackles around the arrow, arcing between two creatures on a hit. When you make the attack, choose another creature within 30 feet of the target. Both creatures must make a Dexterity saving throw against your spell save DC, taking 2d6 Lightning damage on a failed save or half as much on a success.

Entangling Shot. The wooden shaft of the arrow sprouts tiny green leaves. On hit, the target and must make a Strength saving throw against your spell save DC. On a failure, the target takes 2d6 Piercing damage and gains the Restrained condition for 1 minute. The creature may repeat the save at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on a success. On a success, the creature takes half as much damage and does not become Restrained.

Hexing Shot. The magic surrounding your arrow clouds the mind of your target. On hit, the target must make a Wisdom saving throw against your spell save DC. On a failure, the target takes 2d6 Psychic damage and gains the Charmed or Frightened condition for 1 minute (your choice). The creature may repeat the save at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on a success. On a success, the creature takes half as much damage and does not become Charmed or Frightened.

Viper Shot. The arrow transforms into a hissing serpent. On hit, the target must make a Constitution saving throw against your spell save DC. On a success, the creature takes half as much damage and does not become Poisoned.

Level 15: Primordial Magic

Taking damage can't break your Concentration on the Hex or Hunter's Mark spells.

In addition, you may use a Bonus Action to change the damage resistance of your Weave the Elements feature to a new type. When you do, you may also choose a creature within 30 feet of you. That creature takes 4d6 damage of the existing damage type or the new damage type you just selected. You may use this feature a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier and regain all uses when you complete a Short or Long Rest.

Rogue: Sanguine Thief

Eliminate Your Prey with Blood Magic

In dark alleyways across Etharis, deals are made in coin and blood, but a few enterprising rogues have posed the question: "why not both?" Sanguine Thieves are assassins who harness the power of Sangromancy to fuel their abilities, finding new and innovative ways to utilize the blood they see all too frequently in their line of work.

Sanguine Thieves learn to draw upon the blood of their victims rather than their own, extending their ability to use blood magic beyond the limits of their own vitality. When cornered, Sanguine Thieves can unleash this power in a hail of bloody darts or slide out from underneath a foe's blade, leaving nothing behind but a red mist.

Level 3: Spellcasting

You have learned to cast Wizard spells, as well as spells from the Sangromancy school. All Sangromancy spells and cantrips are treated as Wizard spells for the purposes of this subclass.

Cantrips. You know three cantrips from the Wizard spell list and from the list of Sangromancy spells. Whenever you gain a Rogue level, you can replace one of your cantrips with another Wizard cantrip of your choice.

When you reach Rogue level 10, you learn another Wizard cantrip of your choice.

Spell Slots. The Sanguine Thief Spellcasting table shows how many spell slots you have to cast your level 1+ spells. You regain all expended spell slots when you finish a Long Rest.

Prepared Spells of Level 1+. You prepare the list of level 1+ spells that are available for you to cast with this feature. To start, choose three level 1 Wizard spells.

The number of spells on your list increases as you gain Rogue levels, as shown in the Prepared Spells column of the Sanguine Thief Spellcasting table. Whenever that number increases, choose additional Wizard spells until the number of spells on your list matches the number in the Sanguine Thief Spellcasting table. The chosen spells must be of a level for which you have spell slots.

Changing Your Prepared Spells. Whenever you gain a Rogue level, you can replace one spell on your list with another Wizard spell for which you have spell slots.

Spellcasting Ability. Intelligence is your spellcasting ability for your Wizard spells.

Spellcasting Focus. You can use an Arcane Focus as a Spellcasting Focus for your Wizard spells.

Level 3: Stolen Power

You gain a pool of d8s that you can expend instead of a Hit Point Die when you cast Sangromancy spells or use other Sanguine Thief features. The number of Sangromancy Dice in the pool equals the number of damage dice listed in the Sneak Attack column of the Rogue Features table. Some Sanguine Thief features allow you to replenish this pool; however, you cannot possess more dice than you have Sneak Attack dice. If you would regain a Sangromancy Die while you are at the pool's maximum, these dice are lost instead.

Your pool regains all expended dice when you finish a Long Rest.

Level 3: Steal Blood

When you hit a creature with a Sneak Attack, you regain one of your Sangromancy dice.

If you are Bloodied, you may instead roll the die immediately and regain Hit Points equal to the result. You may use this healing feature a number of times equal to your Intelligence modifier and regain all uses when you complete a Long Rest.

Level 9: Bloody Blades

When you finish a Long Rest, you may expend up to two Hit Point Dice (or dice from your Sangromancy pool) to create that many Daggers out of crystallized blood. Each Dagger may be used as an Arcane Focus for your Sanguine Thief spells, and you may cast spells with Somatic components even if you wield these weapons in one or both hands.

Additionally, when you score a Critical Hit with these weapons, you may roll the expended Hit Die and add that much Necrotic damage to the damage of the attack. These daggers disappear when you complete a Long Rest.

Level 13: Bloodstitch

You may expend three Hit Point Dice (or dice from your Sangromancy pool) to conjure a fan of blood needles, hurling them at nearby creatures. Choose a number of creatures up to your Intelligence modifier within 30 feet of you that you can see. Make a Ranged weapon attack against each of the targets. Roll the Hit Dice expended to use this feature, and each creature hit by the attack takes Necrotic damage equal to the result + your Dexterity modifier. You regain one Sangromancy die for each creature reduced to 0 Hit Points by the attack. Once you use this feature you cannot use it again until you finish a Short or Long Rest.

Level 17: Bloody Exit

When a creature makes an attack roll against you, you may use your Reaction and expend 5 Hit Point Dice (or dice from your Sangromancy pool) to turn into a cloud of bloody mist. The triggering attack automatically misses, and you may teleport to an unoccupied space you can see within 30 feet of your starting location. Upon arrival, you may make one melee attack with Advantage against a target within reach using a Melee weapon. If this attack hits, you roll the 5 expend Hit Point Dice or Sangromancy dice and add it as Necrotic damage to the damage from the attack. Once you use this feature you cannot use it again until you complete a Short or Long Rest.

Sorcerer: Apocalypse Sorcery

Hasten or Stall the End of the World

Apocalypse Sorcerers have seen the shape of things to come. They may have visions of the Great Beast ushering in the end of Etharis or dream of Gormadrag waking and devouring the lands.

These visions or others like it besiege Apocalypse Sorcerers night and day, plaguing and empowering in equal measure. Some find relief in putting these revelations into written words, producing texts that read as rambling and incoherent to others but both sensible and inevitable to them. When the apocalypse-bringer is freed to travel across Etharis unburdened, undoing the works of gods and men alike, magic will swell and pool, ripe for the taking. This sign of the end is also their gift.

Level 3: Apocalyptic Spells

When you reach a Sorcerer level specified in the Apocalyptic Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Apocalyptic Spells

Sorcerer Level	Spells
3	Augury, Comprehend Languages, Hellish Rebuke, Ray of Enfeeblement
5	Bestow Curse, Revivify
7	Banishment, Divination
9	Contagion, Insect Plague

Level 3: Unhinged Asservations

You are obsessed with documenting your visions of the end of the world. You gain proficiency with Calligrapher's Tools and you can create Spell Scrolls in half the time and at half the cost in GP.

In addition, when you create a Spell Scroll, you can ensorcell it. When you ensorcell a spell, you must expend a spell slot equal to or greater than the spell's level and you can spend Sorcery points to apply one of your Metamagic options. Any creature that knows at least one language can use your ensorcelled Spell Scroll, which casts the spell with the benefit of the Metamagic option you chose. The Spell Scroll remains ensorcelled until it is used or you finish a Long Rest, whichever happens first.

Level 6: Bear Witness

You have prepared your entire life for the end of the world. While your Innate Sorcery feature is active, you gain the following benefits.

Apocalyptic Inurement. You have Resistance to Force damage.

Recite Scripture. As a Bonus Action, once per use of your Innate Sorcery, you can use a Spell Scroll that has a spell with a casting time of Action.

Unflappable. You are Immune to the Frightened condition.

Level 6: Arcane Apocrypha

Your obsessive reflections on the end of existence inspires your writing. Whenever you finish a Long Rest, you can create one Spell Scroll of a level spell that you can cast at no cost.

Level 14: Forbidden Magic

The end of Etharis is a time where magic is unbound and magical power long hidden is unearthed. When you cast a Sorcerer spell using a spell slot, you can enhance it in one of the following ways.

Excessive. If the spell requires a material component with a cost, you can cast the spell without the material component. When you do, you take Force damage equal to 2 x the level of the spell. This damage ignores Resistance and Immunity.

Inexorable. If the spell requires Concentration, your Concentration cannot be broken on that spell. When the spell ends, you gain a level of Exhaustion.

Pyrrhic. If the spell requires an attack roll, you can turn one hit into a Critical Hit. When you do, your Hit Point maximum is reduced by four times the level of the spell. This reduction ends when you finish a Long Rest.

Level 18: The End is Nigh

You loudly proclaim the events that will come to pass when the world ends. As a Magic action, you create a 30-foot Sphere centered on you. Creatures of your choice within the Sphere have a vision of the apocalypse, just as you describe it. Then they are hit by waves of energy portending the end of the world.

Each chosen creature must make a Wisdom saving throw against your spell save DC. On a failed save, a creature takes 6d6 Psychic damage and 6d6 Force damage, and has the Frightened condition for 1 minute. On a successful save, the creature takes half as much damage only. A Frightened creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the Frightened condition on a successful save. A creature reduced to 0 Hit Points from this spell can be revived only by a True Resurrection or a Wish spell.

Once you use this feature, you can't do so again until you finish a Long Rest unless you spend 6 Sorcery Points (no action required) to restore your use of it.

Warlock: The Coven

Curse and Befuddle with Hag Magic

Hags dwell in the deep places of Etharis, from the primordial forests of Valika, to the misty woods of Charneault, and the putrid streets of Liesech. These creatures, though rarely benevolent, are willing to bargain their power with mortals in exchange for furthering their own capricious goals.

Within a coven, warlocks often find themselves with a single hag as a sponsor, which can lead to the peculiar situation of acting against another hags or warlocks as a pawn in the coven's internal politics.

Level 3: Coven Spells

The magic of your patron ensures you always have certain spells ready; when you reach a Warlock level specified in the Coven Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Coven Spells

Warlock Level	Spells
3	Hold Person, Identify, Locate Object, Ray of Sickness
5	Bestow Curse, Counterspell
7	Phantasmal Killer, Polymorph
9	Divination, Locate Creature
17	Contact Other Plane, Scrying

Level 3: Hag's Eye

As an agent of the coven, you have been gifted with a magical item known as a Hag's Eye. Crafted from a real eye and fitted into a ring, pendant, or other accessory, this item can be used as an Arcane Focus for your Warlock spells. Hags within the coven can see through the eye, and the destruction of the item can cause them actual pain, so any pawn who loses their talisman will often invoke their ire.

While you possess the eye, you may cast Hex without expending a spell slot a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier, and regain all expended uses when you complete a Long Rest. In addition, when you reach level 10 you may use the eye to cast Bestow Curse once without expending a spell slot, and you regain the ability to do so once you complete a Long Rest.

Level 6: Hag's Guile

Hags delight in deceiving and manipulating others, and you gain some of their skill in doing so. You learn the Minor Illusion cantrip. If you already have this cantrip, choose another from the Warlock spell list.

Additionally, whenever a creature interacts with or takes the Study action to inspect any effect created by your casting of the Minor Illusion or Major Image spell, you may use your Reaction to impose Disadvantage on the check.

Also, the first creature to interact with or succeed on the Study action to ascertain the truth of the illusion takes 1d6 + your Charisma modifier Psychic damage for Minor Illusion, or 4d6 + your Charisma modifier Psychic damage for Major Image. You may use this ability a number of times equal to your Charisma modifier, regaining all uses when you complete a Short or Long Rest.

Level 10: Hag's Visage

By tapping into the Coven's power, you twist your face into a horrifying mask resembling a hag. As a Magic action, you may gain the following abilities for 1 minute or until you end the effect (no action required). Once you use this feature you can't use it again until you finish a Long Rest.

Horrifying Gaze. As a Bonus Action, you choose one Humanoid within 30 feet of you who can see your face. The creature must make a Wisdom saving throw against your spell save DC or gain the Frightened condition for 1 minute. The creature can repeat the save at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on a success, but if the creature can see you, it has Disadvantage on the save.

Paralyzing Gaze. As a Magic Action, you choose one Humanoid within 30 feet of you who can see your face and has the Frightened condition. The creature must make a Wisdom saving throw against your spell save DC or gain the Paralyzed condition.

On a successful save, the creature takes Necrotic damage equal to your Warlock level, it is no longer Frightened, and it cannot be targeted by your Hag's Visage again until you complete a Long Rest.

Death Gaze. As a Magic Action, you choose one Humanoid within 30 feet of you who can see your face and has the Paralyzed condition. The creature must make a Wisdom saving throw with Advantage against your spell save DC or fall to 0 Hit Points.

On a successful save, the creature takes Necrotic damage equal to twice your Warlock level, it is no longer Paralyzed, and it cannot be targeted by your Hag's Visage again until you complete a Long Rest.

Level 14: Hag's Craft

The hags of the Coven impart the knowledge to craft several magic items. You may cast Bubbling Cauldron once without expending a spell slot, and regain the ability to do so when you complete a Long Rest.

Additionally, when you complete a Long Rest, you may expend a spell slot and imbue a gemstone worth at least 100 GP with magic, turning it into a Minor Heartstone. This magic item grants the bearer Immunity to disease and the ability to cast Blink once without expending a spell slot. After Blink is cast from the Minor Heartstone, you regain the expended spell slot. The magic within the gemstone fades after 24 hours and the gem crumbles into dust.

Wizard: Daemonologist

Steal Scraps of Divine and Infernal Power

Through theological study, or perhaps an induction into a secretive cabal, Daemonologists have learned to cast divine magic without the need for faith or bargains. Their spellbooks are scribed with prayer fragments and blasphemous hymns, enabling them to siphon scraps of power from both Arch-Seraphs and Arch-Daemons. From their heretical research, they've come to believe such otherworldly beings are two sides of the same divine kin.

Daemonology is rarely practiced. If the nature of a Daemonologist's abilities are discovered, they risk making a target of superstitious folks, as well as powers both celestial and infernal.

Level 3: Fair and Foul

The spells listed below can be added to your spellbook for no cost when you reach the associated level.

When you finish a Long Rest, choose whether you are siphoning power from Arch-Daemons or Arch-Seraphs. Consult the table below that corresponds to your choice; you can prepare the spells listed for your Wizard level and lower, but you cannot prepare the ones for the opposite faction. For example, if you choose Arch-Daemon as your siphoned power, you cannot prepare the spells listed in the Arch-Seraph section.

Arch-Daemon

Wizard Level	Spells
3	Bane, Toll the Dead
5	Fear
7	Dark Sacrament
9	Geas

Arch-Seraph

Wizard Level	Spells
3	Aid, Bless, Word of Radiance
5	Revivify
7	Guardian of Faith
9	Greater Restoration

Level 3: Stolen Secrets

You have uncovered or stolen secret power from certain agents of the Arch-Daemons and Arch-Seraphs. You gain one Eldritch Invocation of your choice.

Prerequisites. If an invocation has a prerequisite, you must meet it to learn that invocation. If an invocation has a Warlock level prerequisite, you use your Wizard level instead. For example, if an invocation requires you to be a level 5+ Warlock, you can select the invocation once you reach Wizard level 5.

Replacing and Gaining Invocations. Whenever you gain a Wizard level, you can replace one of your invocations with another one for which you qualify. You can't replace an invocation if it's a prerequisite for another invocation that you have.

You gain an additional invocation of your choice at Wizard level 6 and 14.

You can't pick the same invocation more than once unless its description says otherwise.

Intelligent Invocations. When an invocation gained from this feature refers to your Charisma or Charisma modifier, you use your Intelligence or Intelligence modifier instead.

Level 6: Borrowed Tongues and Hides

Your ability to siphon power from Celestials and Fiends is enhanced. You gain the following benefits.

Arch-Daemon's Boon. While you are siphoning power from Arch-Daemons, you have Resistance to Necrotic damage. In addition, Fiends that know at least one language can understand your speech and you can understand theirs, even if you do not share a language.

Arch-Seraph's Boon. While you are siphoning power from Arch-Seraphs, you have Resistance to Radiant damage. In addition, Celestials that know at least one language can understand your speech and you can understand theirs, even if you do not share a language.

Switch Sides. As a Bonus Action, you can change which power you are siphoning from. Once you switch, you can't do so again until you finish a Long Rest.

Level 10: Unearthly Countenance

As a Bonus Action, you can adopt an unearthly countenance for 10 minutes. If you are siphoning power from Arch-Daemons your appearance is infernal in aesthetics and if you are siphoning power from Arch-Seraphs your appearance is divine in aesthetics. For the duration of your unearthly countenance, you gain the following benefits.

Commanding Presence. You have Advantage on Charisma ability checks.

Improved Spells. When you expend a spell slot to cast a spell from the Arch-Daemon or Arch-Seraph table, the spell is cast as if you had spent a spell slot of one level higher.

Unearthly Wings. You gain a Fly Speed of 60 feet.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a Long Rest. You can also restore your use of it by expending a level 5+ spell slot (no action required).

Level 14: Eternal War Eruption

As a Magic action, you use the divine and infernal powers at your command to summon a momentary manifestation of the war between Arch-Daemons and Arch-Seraphs. When you do, you create a 30-foot Sphere centered on a point of your choosing that you can see within 120 feet. Creatures within the Sphere must make a Charisma saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 4d10 Necrotic damage, 4d10 Radiant damage, and has the Blinded condition until the end of their next turn. On a successful save, a creature takes half as much damage only.

As part of the same action, you can change which power you are siphoning from, and you also regain 1 Wizard spell slot of your choice.
